COMMENTARY

Both the fund and the benchmark gained 2.5% and 3.8%, respectively over the week.

U.S. equities recorded solid gains, supported by improving investor sentiment following signs of a temporary ceasefire between the U.S. and regional actors in the Middle East, alongside a sharp decline in oil prices. Optimism around artificial intelligence (AI) also provided a tailwind, particularly for large-cap technology stocks. European stocks also advanced, benefiting from improved sentiment amid signs of geopolitical de-escalation.

All sectors contributed positively within the fund, with industrials and staples leading performance.

Notes

1. Performances greater than one year are annualised
2. December, 31st 2020, is deemed to be the effective inception date.
